

MCGT Social Media Policy

MCGT Social Media Communities include MCGT, Facebook page, and Twitter account.

MCGT is pleased to provide forums for sharing and interacting with others about giftedness. The viewpoints, opinions and actions expressed in comments are those of the individuals themselves, and may not reflect MCGT policies or positions. Always verify information with a qualified professional before taking action.

Our goal is to provide an online community where people with all kinds of views, theories, and concerns can express themselves, can share information, and can interact with one another. Contributors may be asked whether messages or stories shared on this site may be used in other MCGT marketing activities.

Please review the following online community guidelines regarding your responsibilities and MCGT's role in the community.

Be Respectful. It's okay to disagree with others but cutting down or insulting individuals will not be tolerated. Please endeavor to keep your posts civil and non-accusatory. Personal attacks are not permitted.

Keep Your Comments on Topic. MCGT's focus for this site is about information and services that are helping people with giftedness right now. We welcome discussion about giftedness and its impact on individuals and families. MCGT may edit or remove inappropriate or off-topic comments at any time.

Protect Your Privacy. Comments on the forums can become or visible to the general public depending upon which media you are using. Protect your privacy and others. Discussing the private information of others, such as ex-spouses, students, or friends is prohibited. Do not give out personal information such as telephone numbers or street addresses. Doing so may make you susceptible to spam and unauthorized communication. MCGT will not verify personal information posted by others. Read MCGT privacy policy.

For profit posts are limited to a maximum of twice every three months.

Links to Other Web Sites. MCGT is not responsible for the content of any linked Web site, or any link contained in a linked Web site, or any changes or updates to such Web sites. The inclusion of any link does not imply endorsement by MCGT of that Web site. In addition, please be aware that MCGT is not responsible for the privacy practices of such other Web sites. MCGT encourages you to read the privacy statements of every Web site that requests personal information from you.

The Bottom Line. MCGT reserves the right to delete any comments at any time. Users who persist in violating community guidelines may be barred from posting to the forums.

Who to Contact with Questions

Any questions regarding the MCGT social media forums can be emailed directly to webmaster@mcgt.net.